

Stardew Valley- How to Get Auto-Petter

The Eric “Concerned Ape” Barone has a unique way to attract gamers through this, basically molding farming into an e-world. The dilapidated farm of the former grandfather will have a machine which automatically pets any animal inside it and coop them. Well, excited about its name? Its none other than Auto-Petter. How to get this and in which field are its benefit, let’s discuss them in details. So, without any further ado, let’s get started.

Auto-Petter:

Buying machines which can do work without gamer’s involvement has a great influence on skills. Auto-Petter is one of such machines. It automatically coops and pet animals inside it. Nevertheless, a specific barn or coop is required for proper functioning of the machine. In case an animal walks outside; for the machine is placed outside will have no-effect of tame.

How to Get Auto-Petter:

There are different ways to get Auto-Petter, viz.,

- Jojamart: like super markets, Jojamart is a supermarket present inside the Stardew world. You can only avail the Auto-Petter if you have completed the Joja Warehouse instead of the Community Centre. The cost for one Auto-Petter is 50000 gold. That’s huge, right?
- Skull Cavern: most of the time Auto-Petter is found in treasure chests in random.
- Danger in the Deep Quest: in this quest, when there is an activation of Mr. Qi quest, you can find Auto-Pettors in mines whenever an enemy is slayed or you break any container. Well, that’s a matter of luck!!
- The Shrine of Challenge: after the above-mentioned quest is completed, if you activate the shrine, the probability of finding the Auto-Petter increases; whether you kill or break some artifacts, there will be more chances of getting an Auto-Petter.

Pros and Cons of Auto-Petter:

Pros:

- The time-consuming task for the players will be facilitated by this device.
- It maintains a permanent and quick relation between the owner and the animal.

Cons:

- Except the JojaMart, there is no guarantee that the device will be available for the player.
- It provides half of the friendship than that of the manual interaction with animals.
- Choosing the JojaMart path will abandon the Community Centre path, which might not give a kick to play.

That's all!! Happy farming!!
